

JUST IN TIME!

Trucks for Kids

Sophia Begidzhanov & Alana de Haan

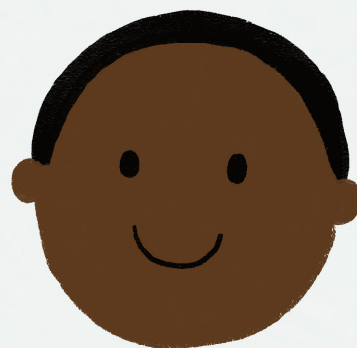

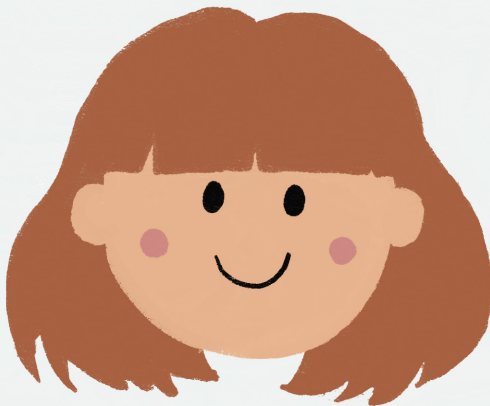

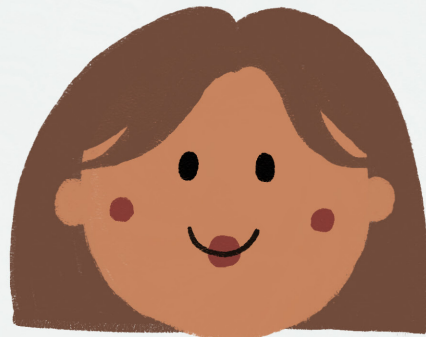

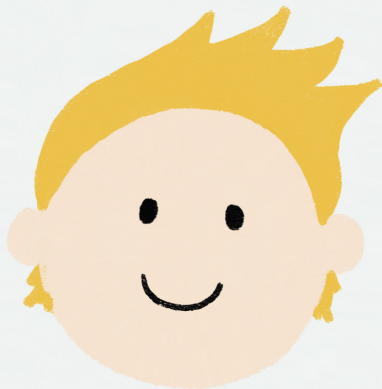

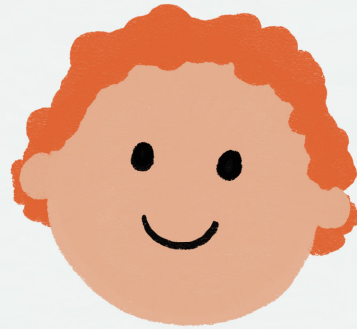

Written and illustrated for children and parents to connect their everyday items with the trucking industry. Thanks to globalization, our quality of life is dependent on the movement of goods through trucks. Just-in-time delivery is a courtesy of the hard working people in transportation and logistics. There is actually no such thing as free shipping.

The freight must flow.

Without us goods have nowhere to go!

The globe is connected like one
small village,

but the truck is the
one with all of the mileage!

Truck drivers deliver
food for us,

and they fill our
house.

Drivers make sure there
is coffee for mommy,

and a safe car for
daddy.

They deliver toys for
you and your friends,

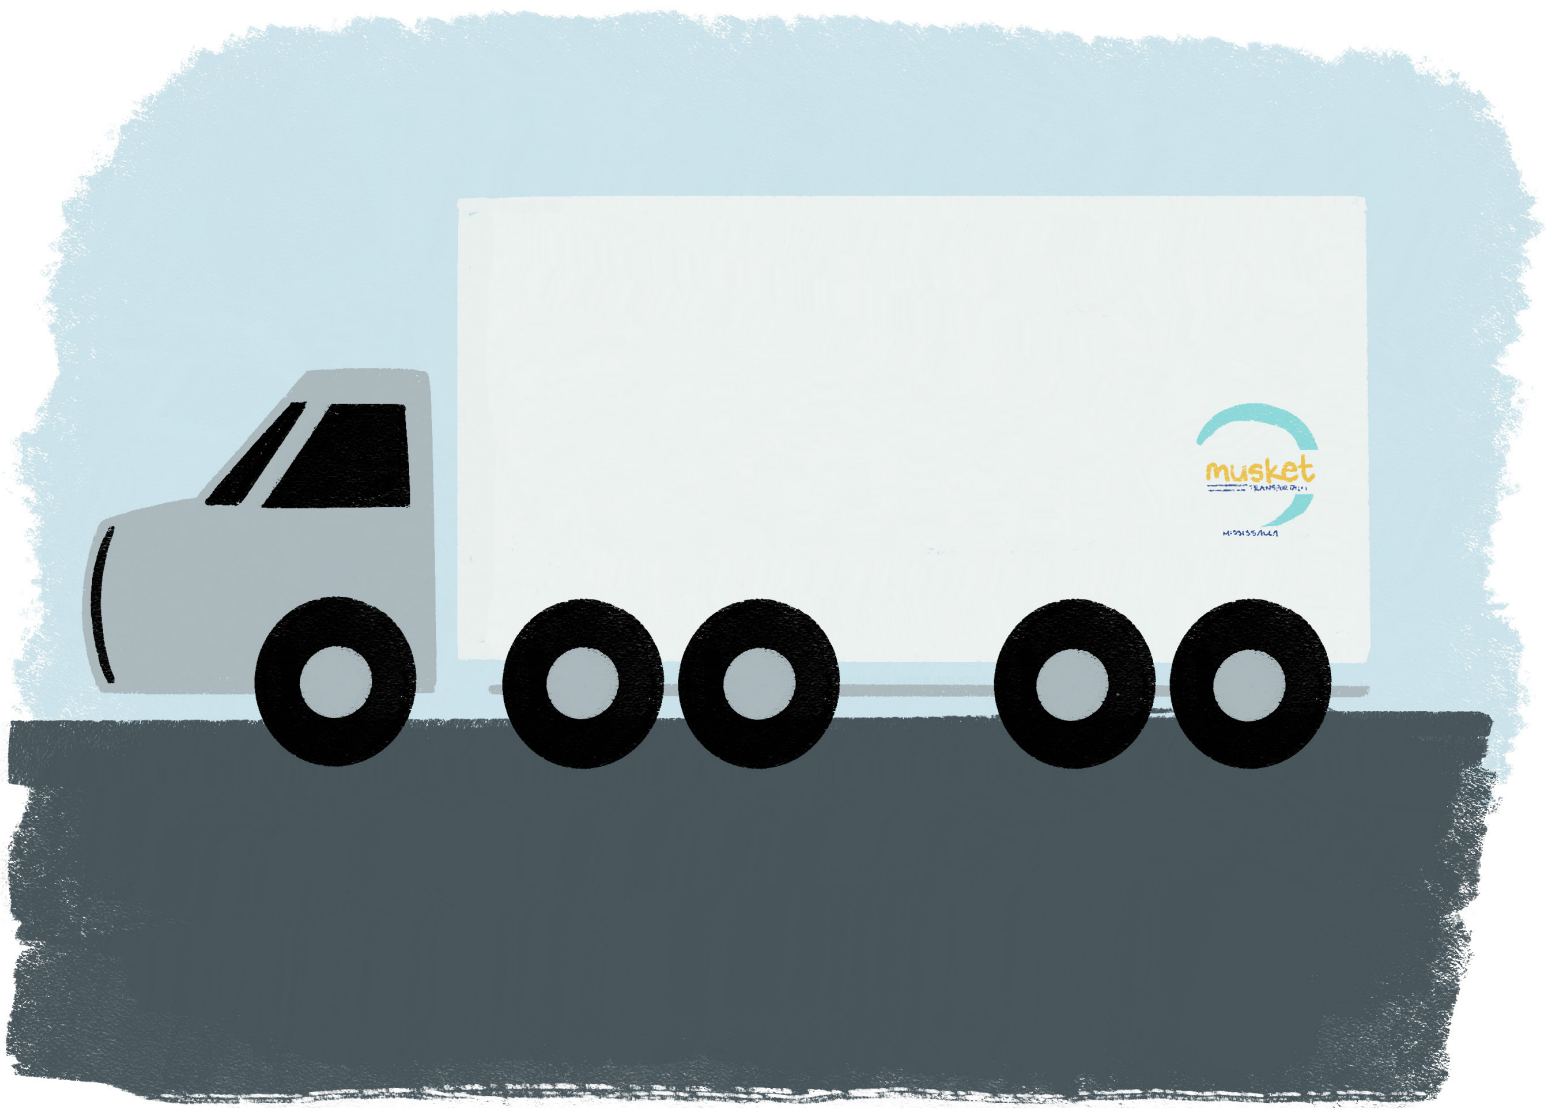

and medicine for
grandparents.

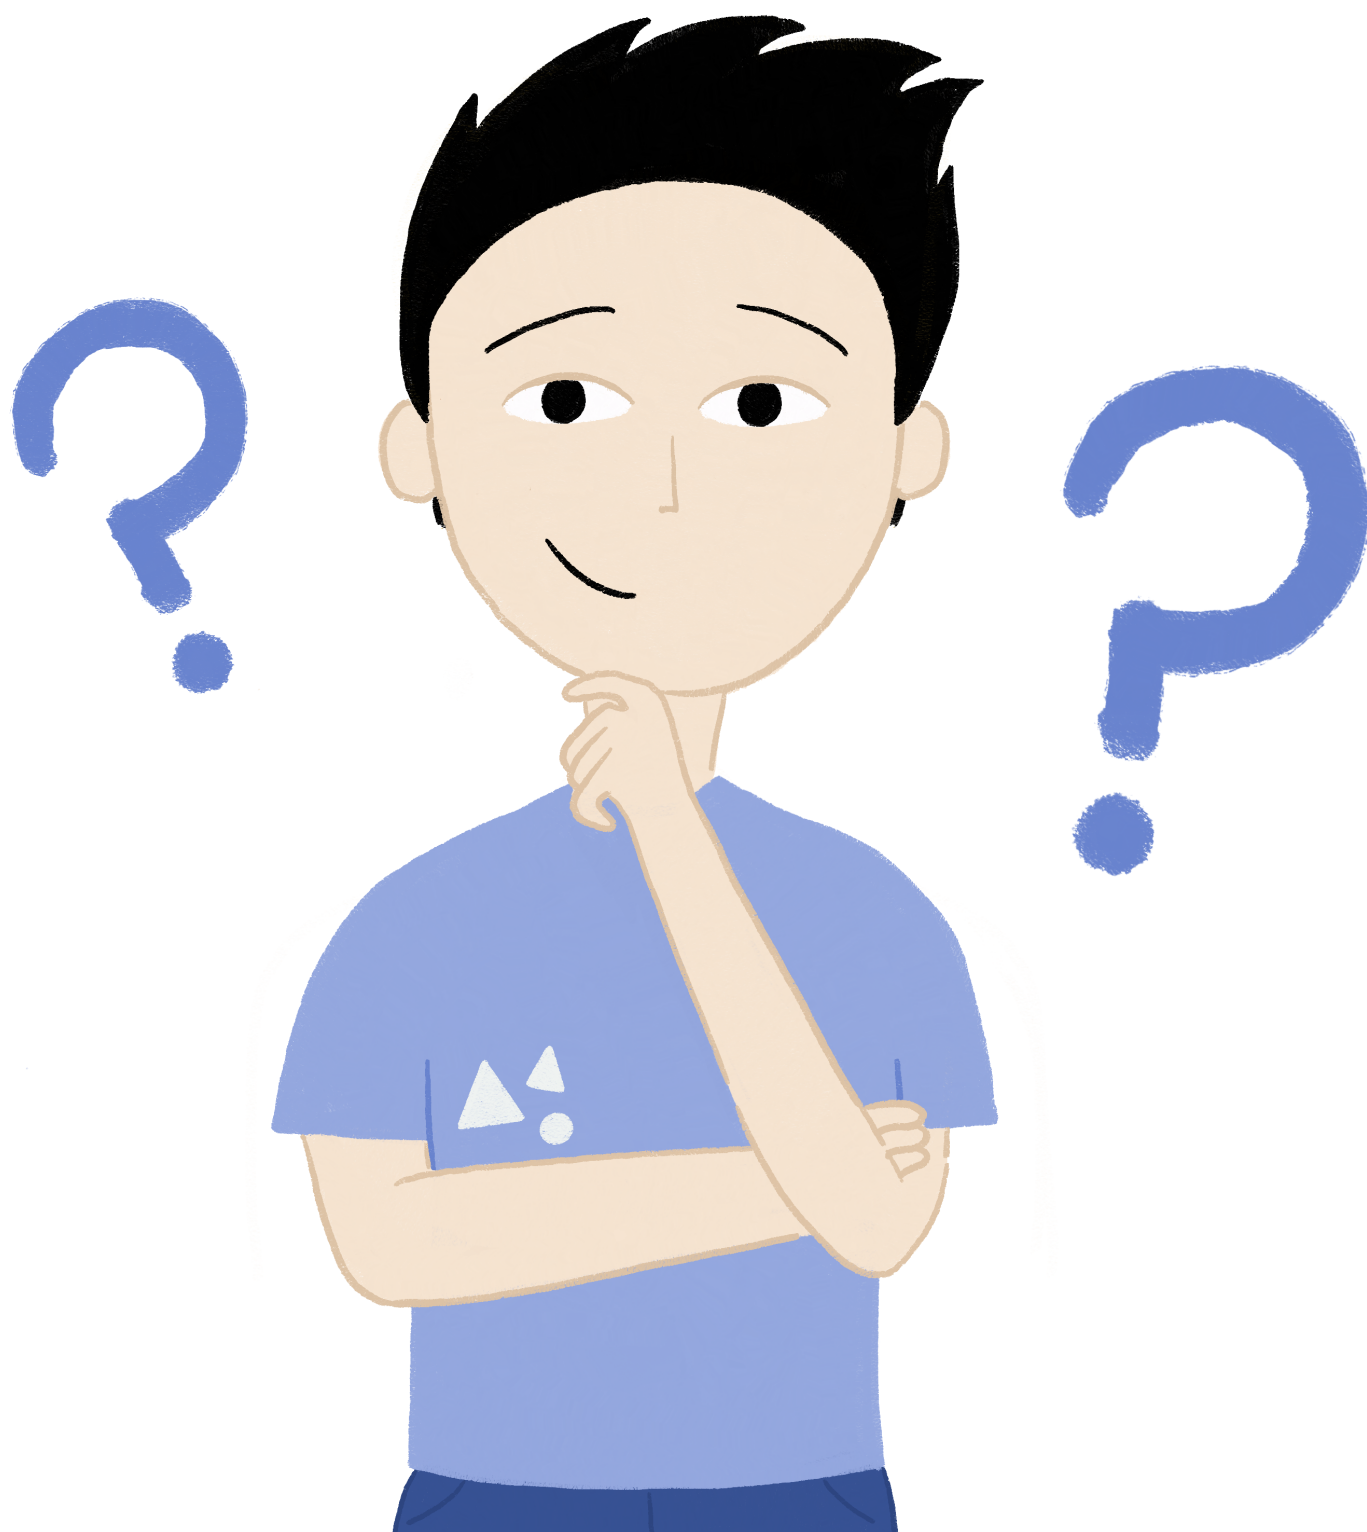

Everything you
see...

Comes just in time because of
me!

Even if...

Something comes
by plane,

train,

or ship.

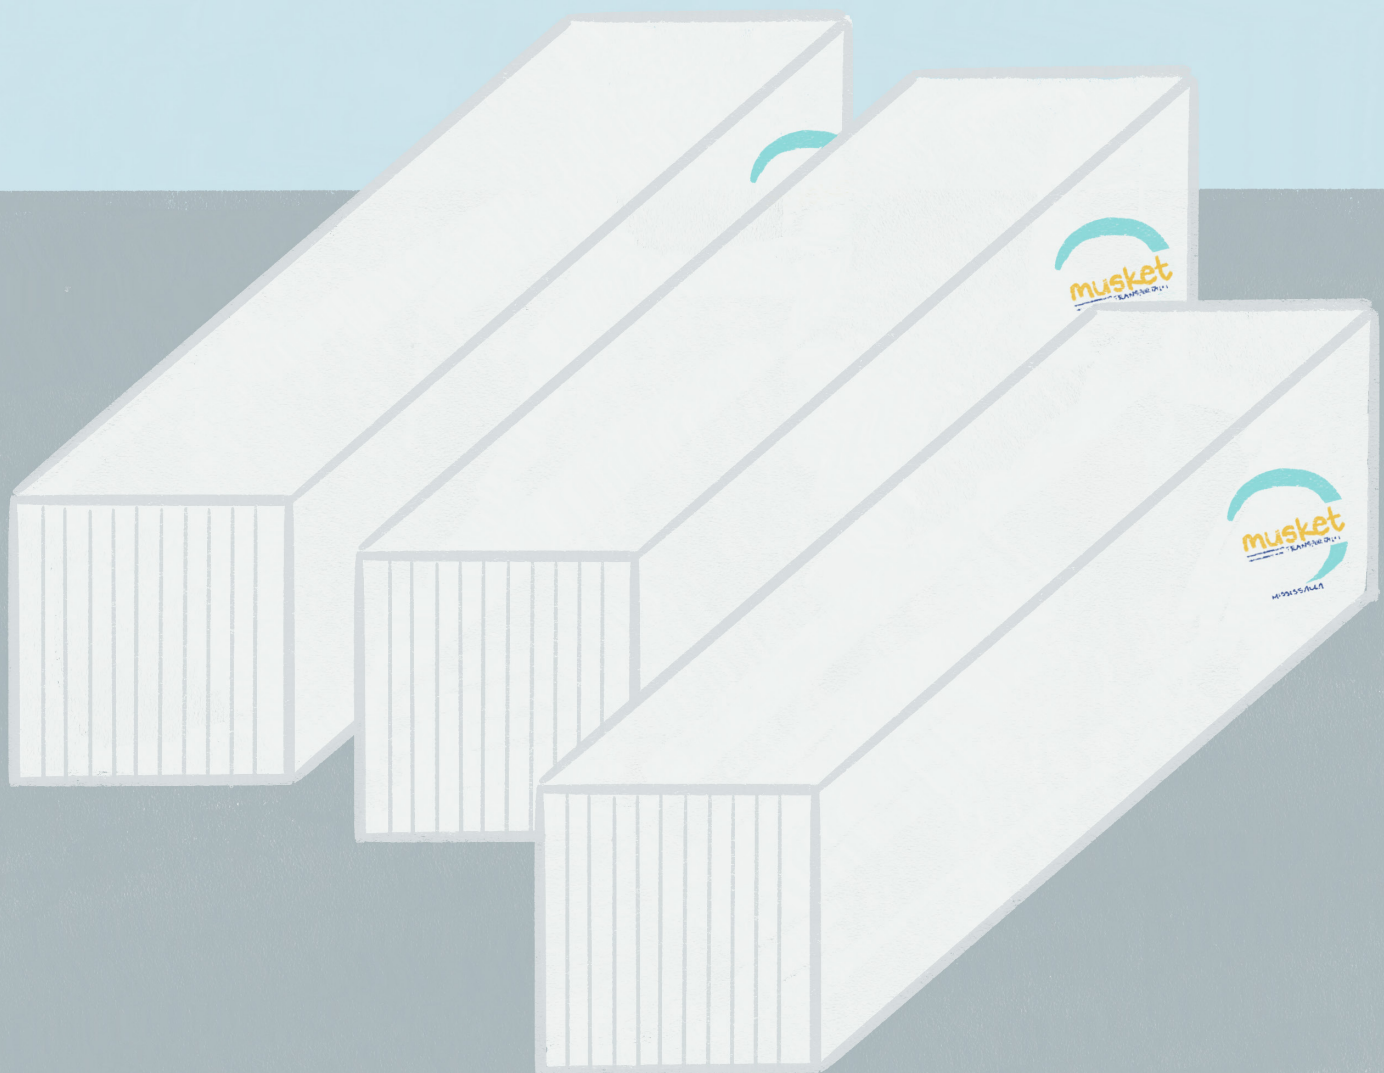

The end delivery
is always by me!

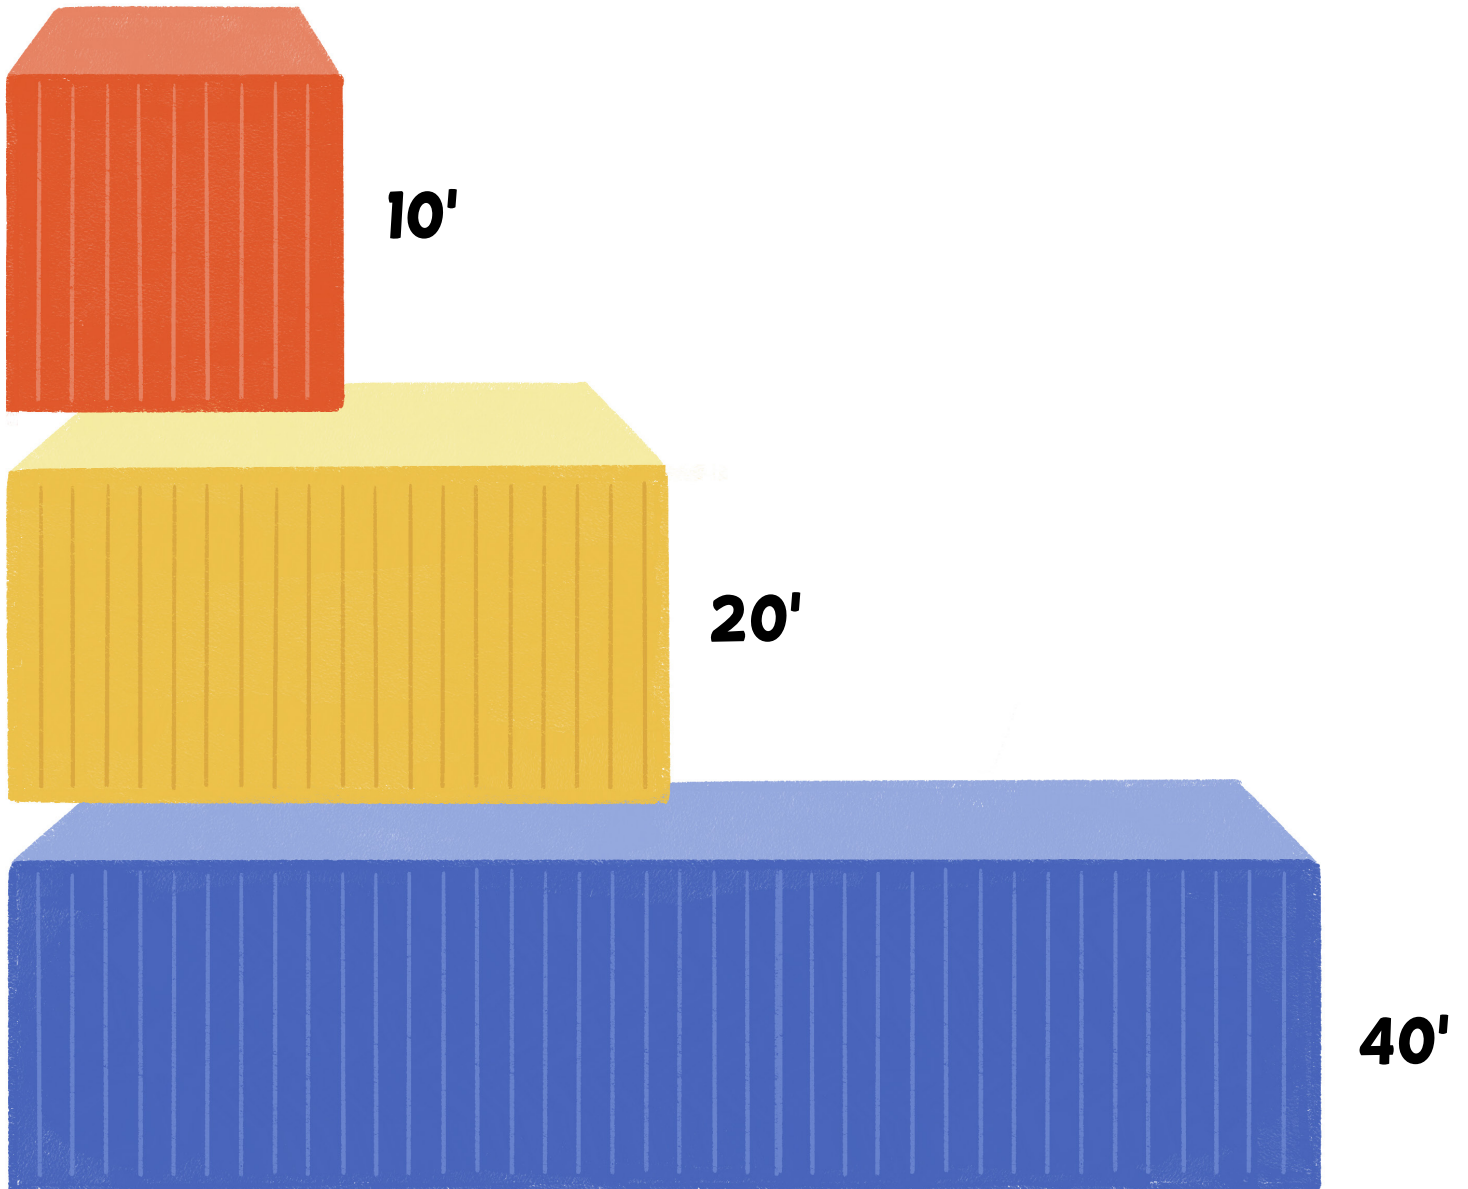

Hello!

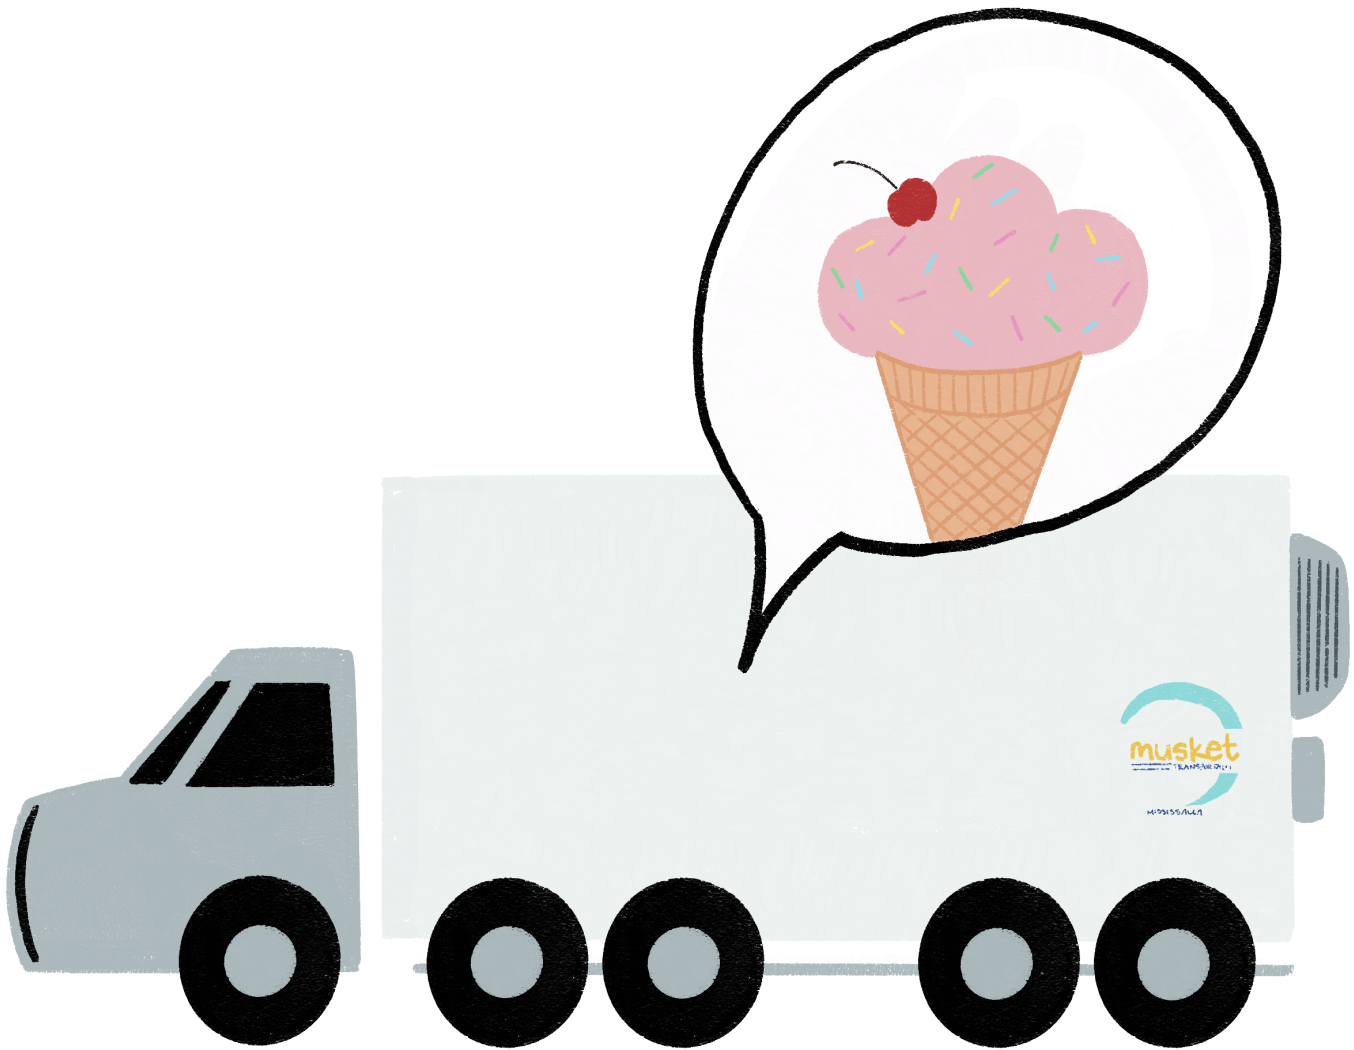

We pull trailers,

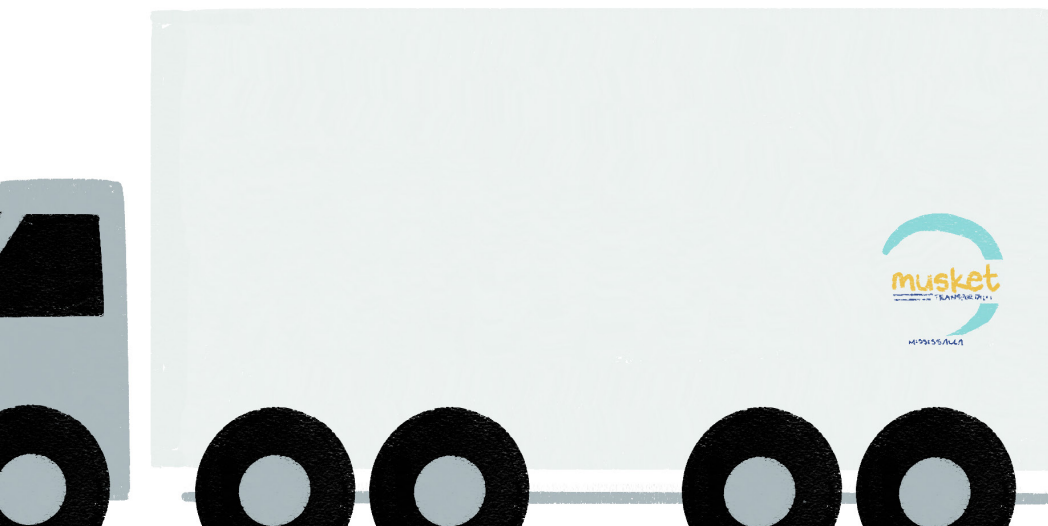

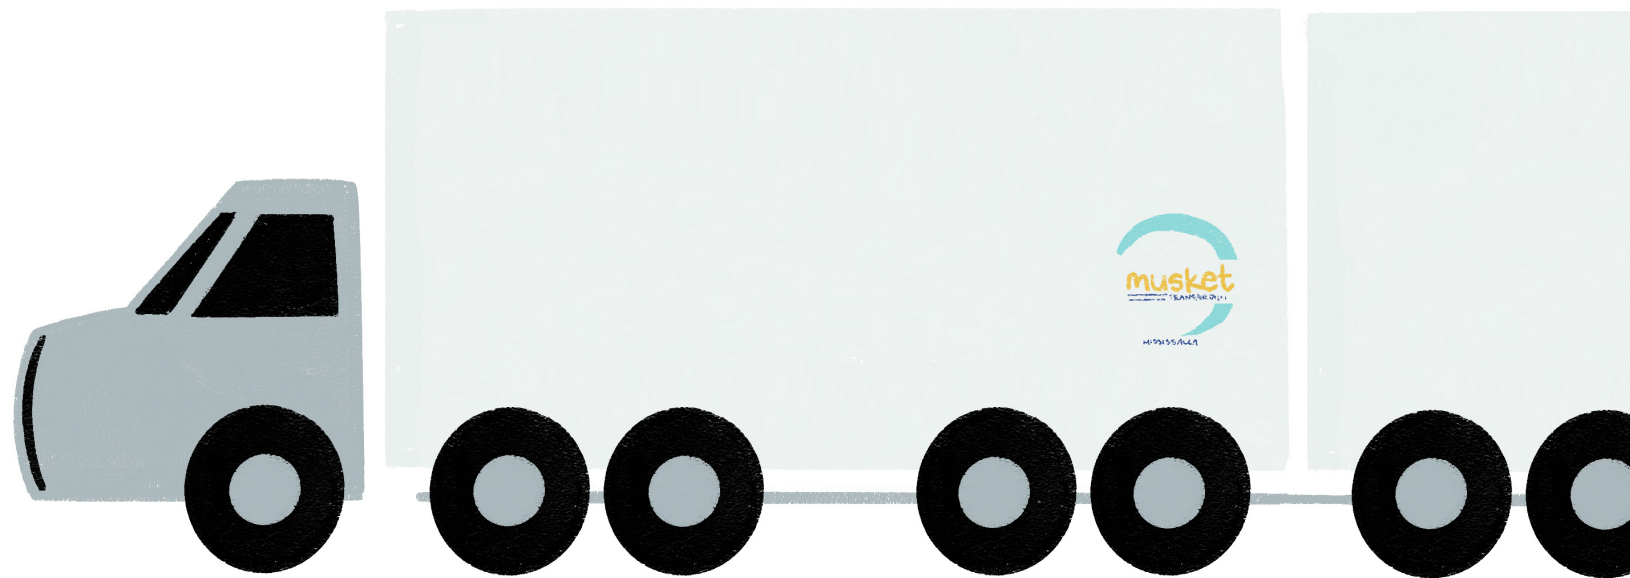

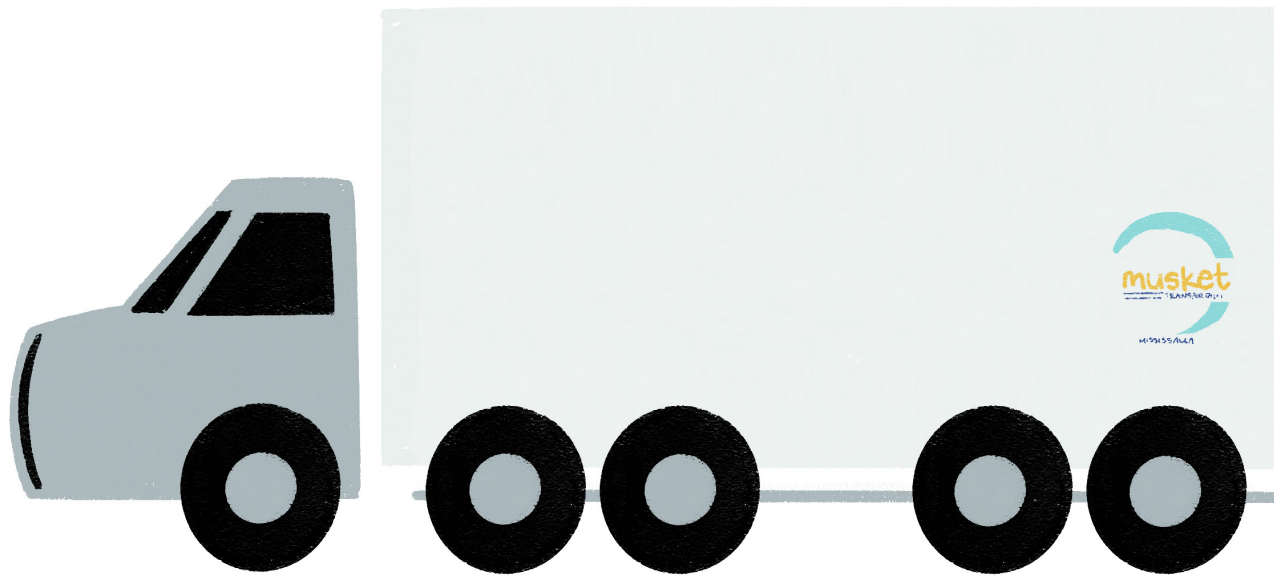

containers,

reefers,

and more!

You'll see us on
the highways,

and on the streets as well.

Wave to us and
point us out.

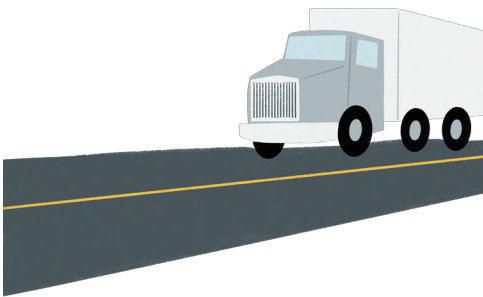

Vroom vroom...
until we meet
again, farewell!

JUST IN TIME, TRUCKS FOR KIDS was originally written for the employees of Musket Transport and Commercial Heavy Equipment Training – CHET. In celebration of Children’s Day, June 1, 2021, we created a book about our industry so that it can be shared with our employees’ children.

Since the pandemic truck drivers have been cast as essential workers or dubbed as freight heroes. As a free download and printable book, we hope to educate a wider group of people on the significance of our industry. It underpins our society. Support your child’s curiosity of everyday items and speak to the journey they all share, delivery by truck.
